Brand Toolkit 2024

Logo

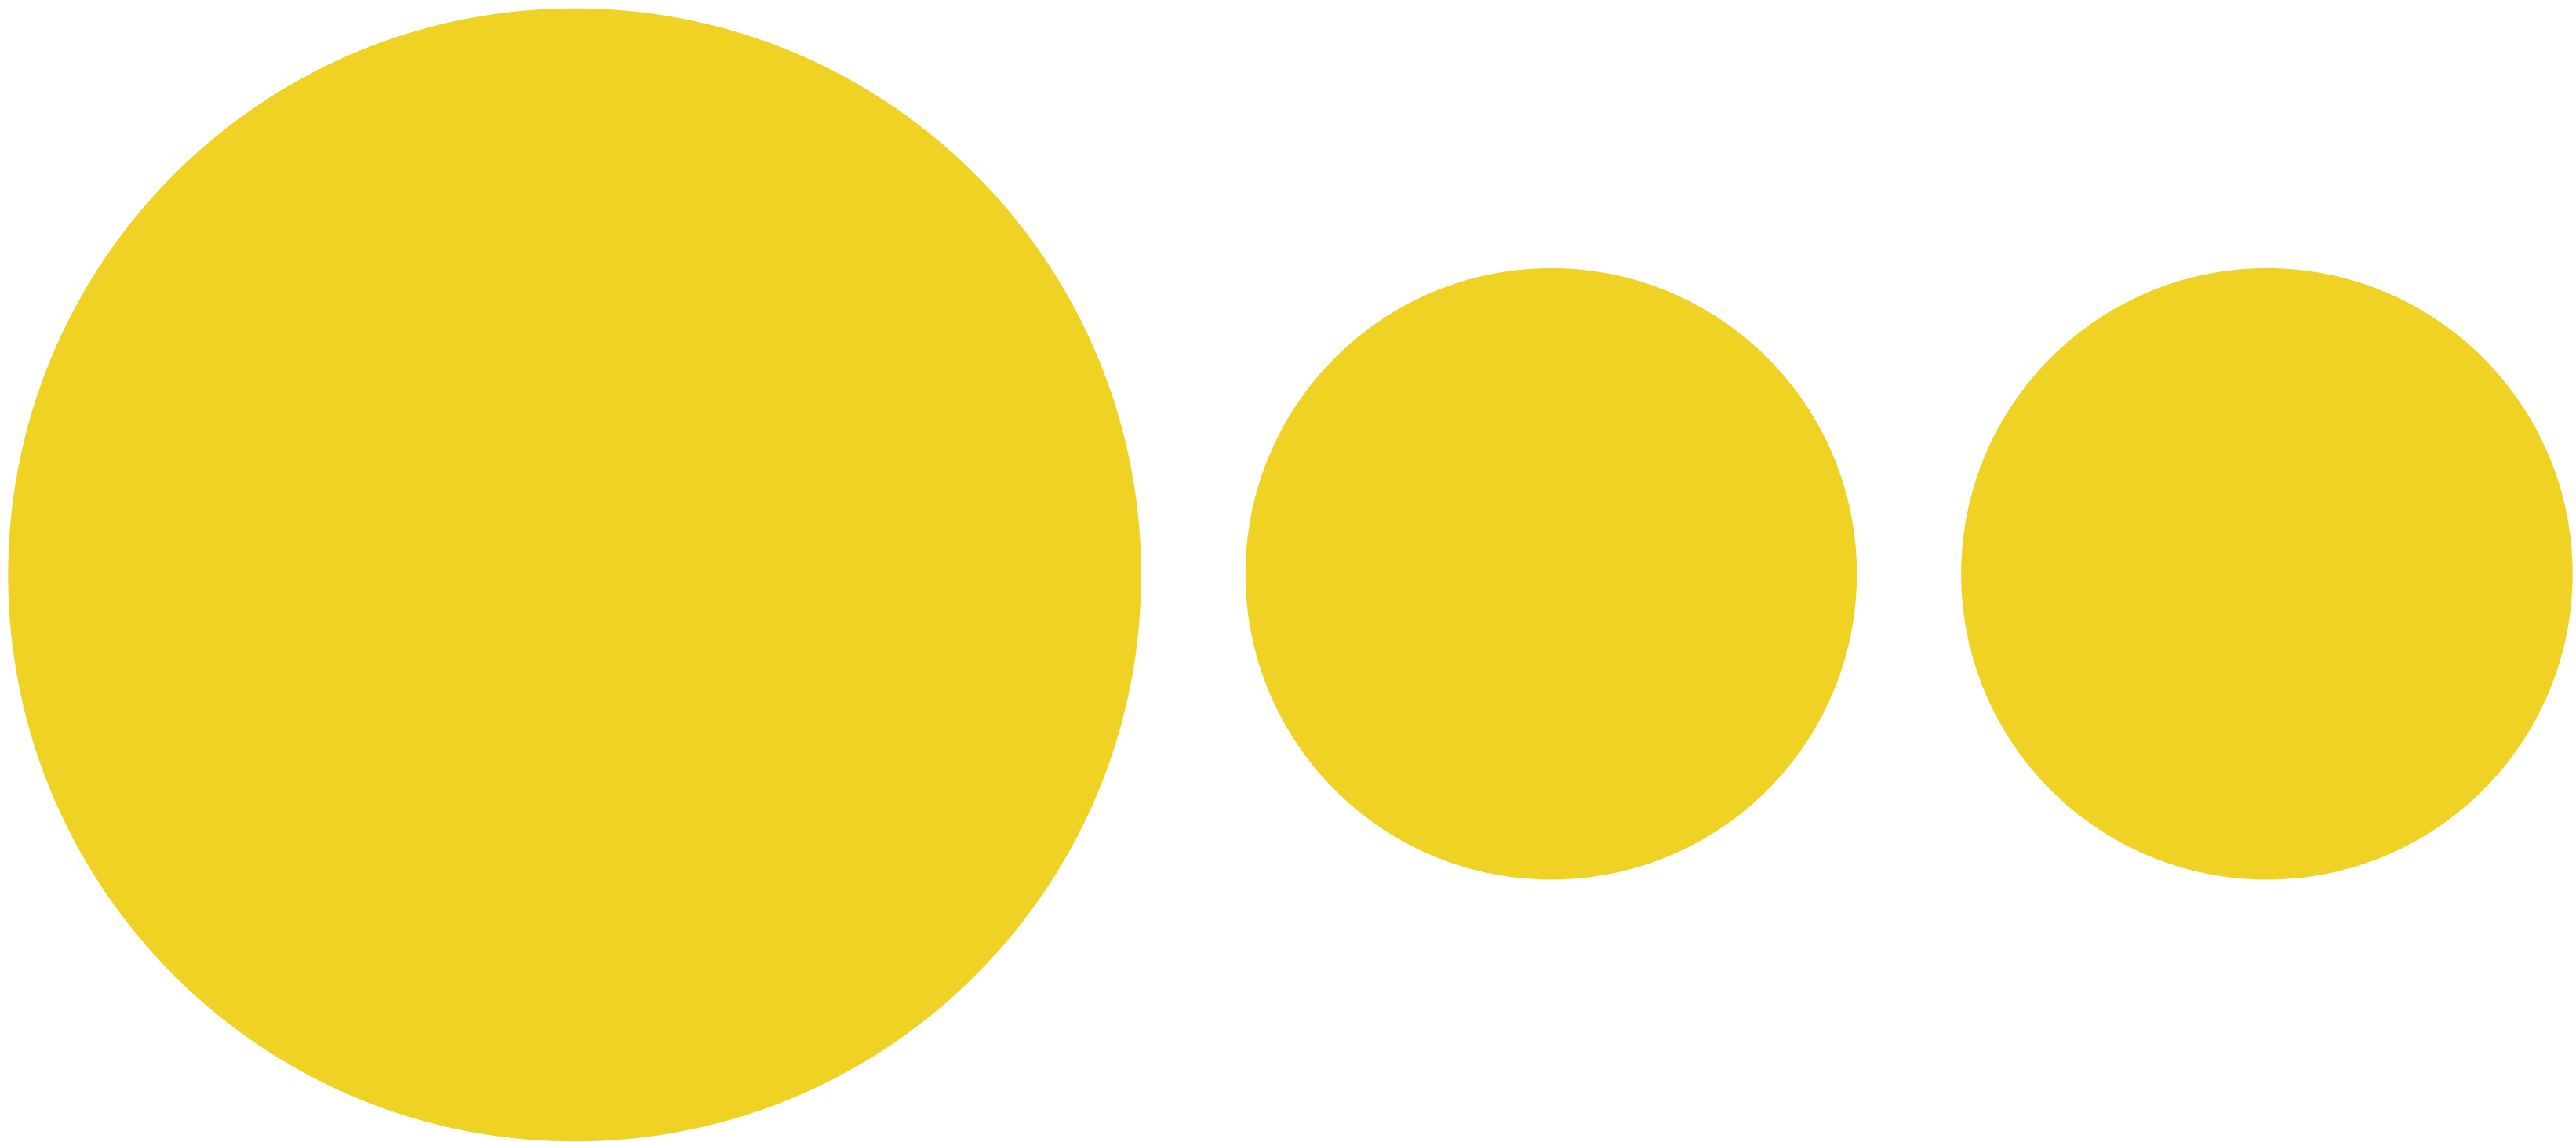

The Coppel logo sits at the heart of our new visual identity. It's been designed for easy recall, powerful visual impact, and functional performance. At the same time, it introduces a conceptual base for the rest of the brand.

Drawing from the brand strategy, the new symbol represents a future version of a key which “unlocks potential” and empowers customers to improve their lives, offering support when they need it. Our new symbol, wordmark, and lock-up allow for greater flexibility for our ever-expanding brand and services.

Symbol

Just like our brand, our key has evolved. From a classic armoire key to an abstraction of a key that represents access to opportunities. Our new key symbolizes Coppel's efforts to provide access across media and devices, to all the people of Mexico.

La clave references new technological and financial products that we offer beyond the physical store. As such, our new symbol performs better at a smaller scale both in print and in digital ecosystems.

Primary logo

Drawing references from the geometric construction principles of our past logo, this horizontal lockup of our symbol and wordmark forms our primary Coppel logo.

To establish a strong and recognizable brand identity, it is crucial that our symbol and wordmark are always used together in the initial stages of our brand launch. This unified presentation will help our audience quickly associate both elements with our new brand, fostering brand recognition.

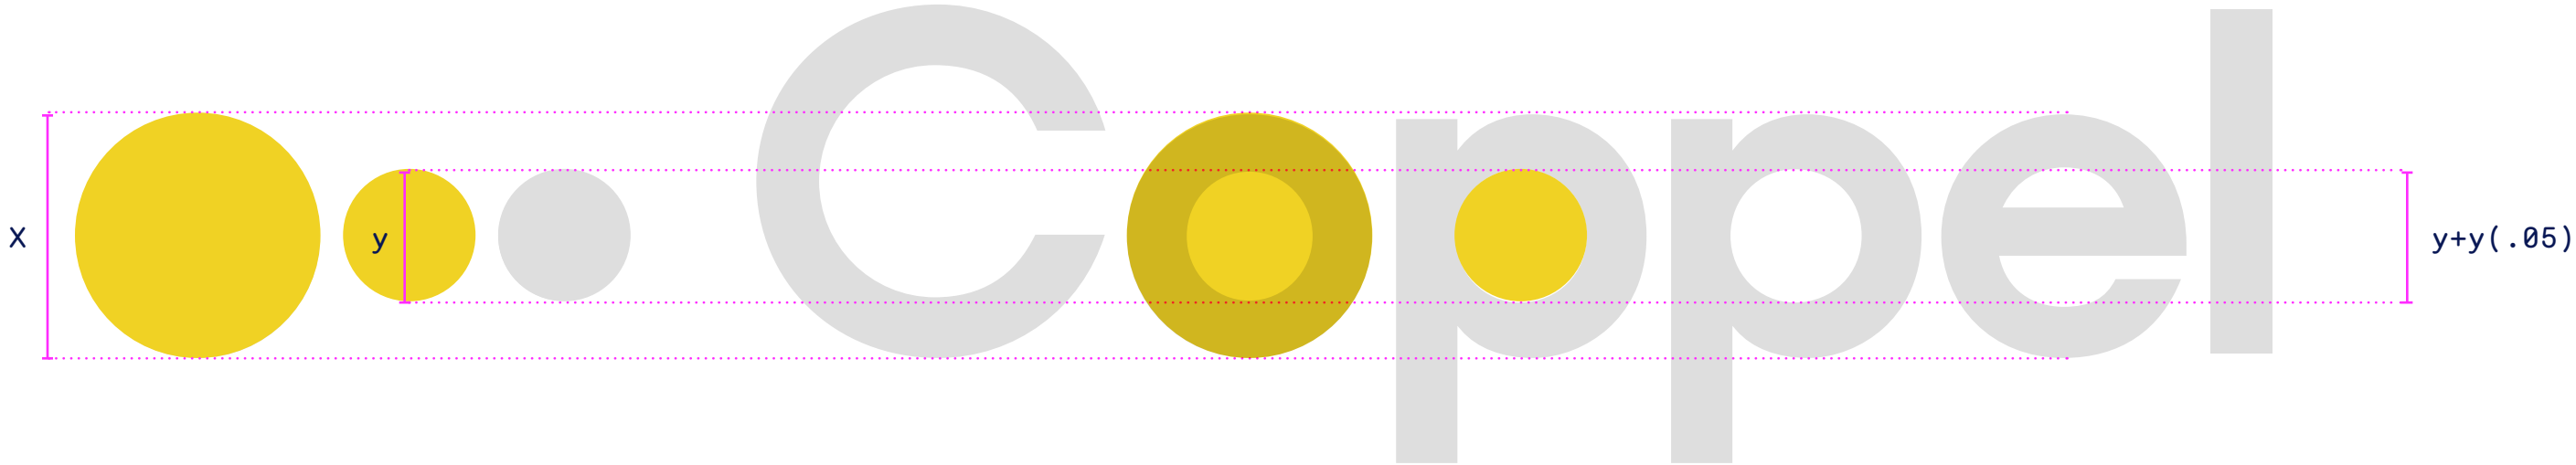

Logo construction

Our wordmark is crafted from a geometric sans serif, based on a circle. The circles within the wordmark are directly tied to those in our symbol and are sized to work together in unison.

For optical purposes, the two smaller circles align to the counters of the p and o. These circles have been made 5% larger to appear the same size.

X= full 'o' x-height
y= 'o' counter height

Secondary logo

Our secondary logo is a stacked version of the wordmark and symbol. Use this variation when there is a space constraint, or when the canvas size is too narrow for the horizontal version.

Minimum size

The minimum size guide below shows the smallest units that our logo and symbol should appear at in print and digital applications.

Social media

Whenever our symbol is used on its own, it should be set in Coppel Yellow over White, or Coppel Blue. The minimum size is 0.25 inches wide for print and 16px wide for digital (the size of a favicon).

For square formats, our symbol's outer margin is one tenth of the total symbol width. For circular formats, the outer margin is equal to 1/4 of the width of the symbol.

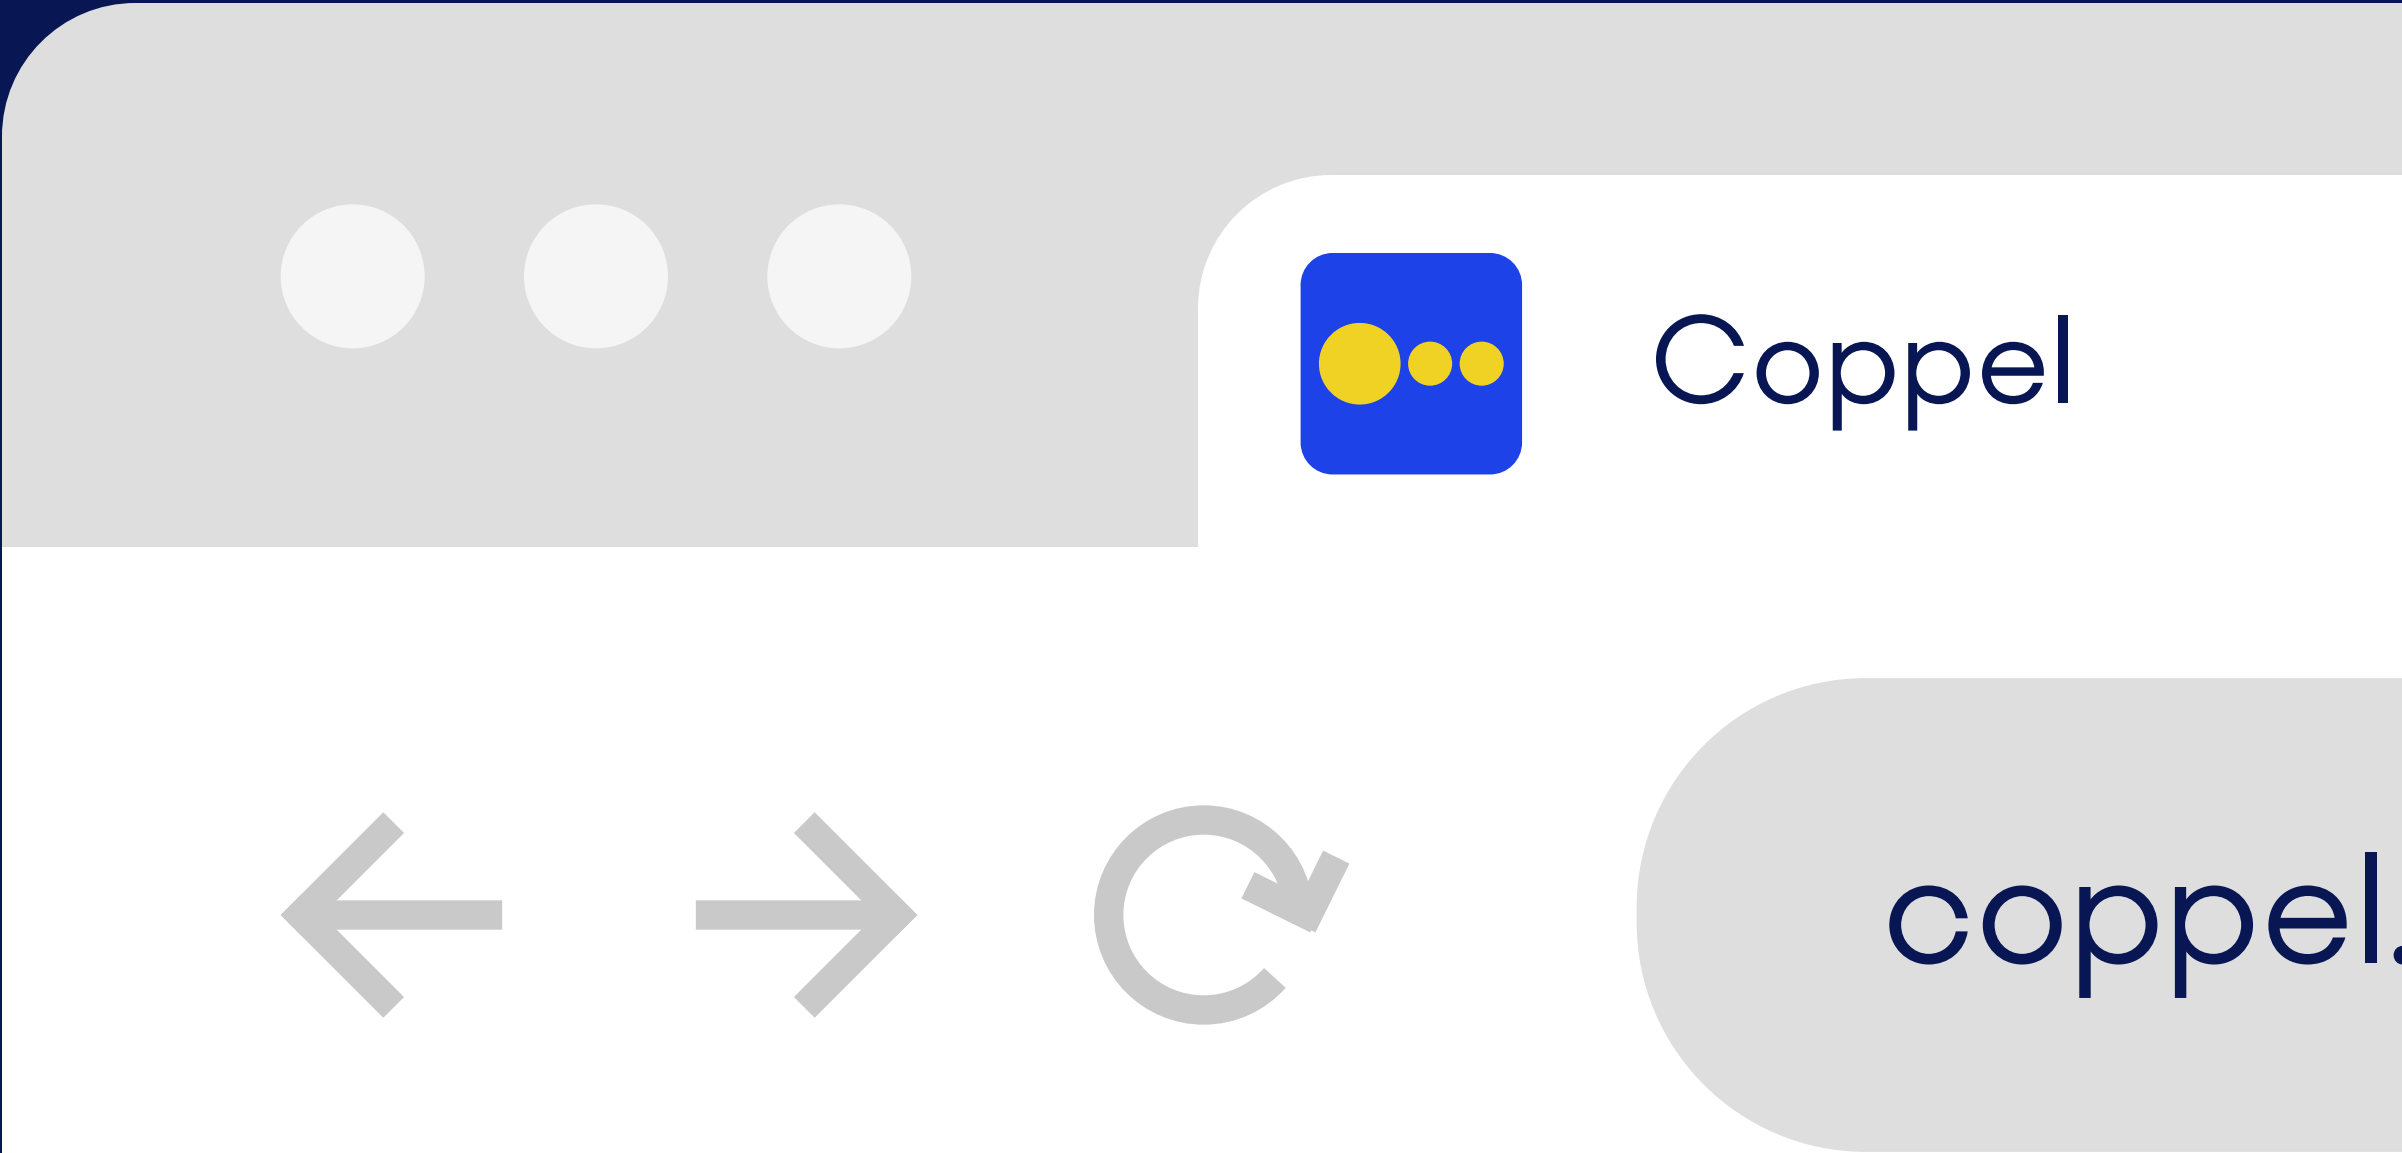

Favicon

Minimum screen size:
16 px wide

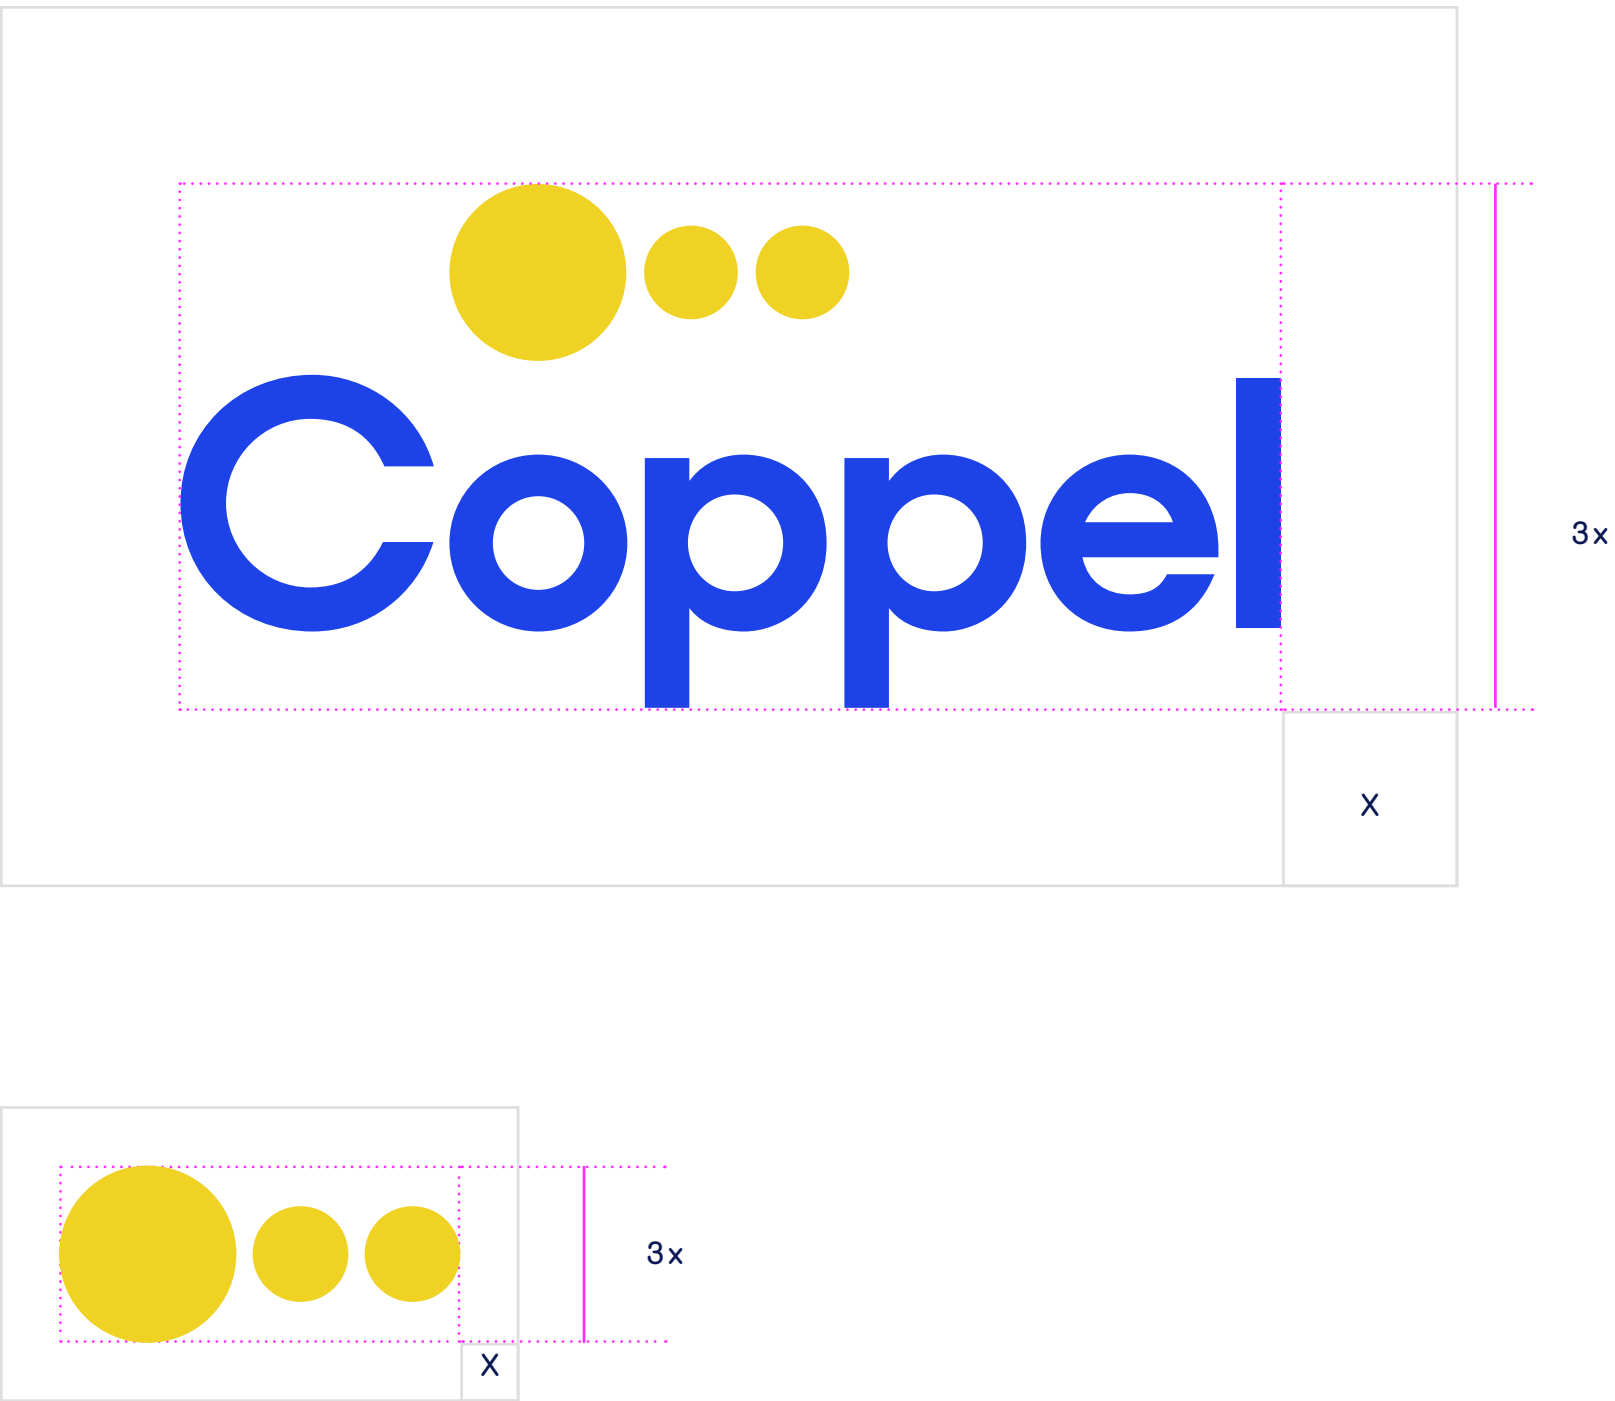

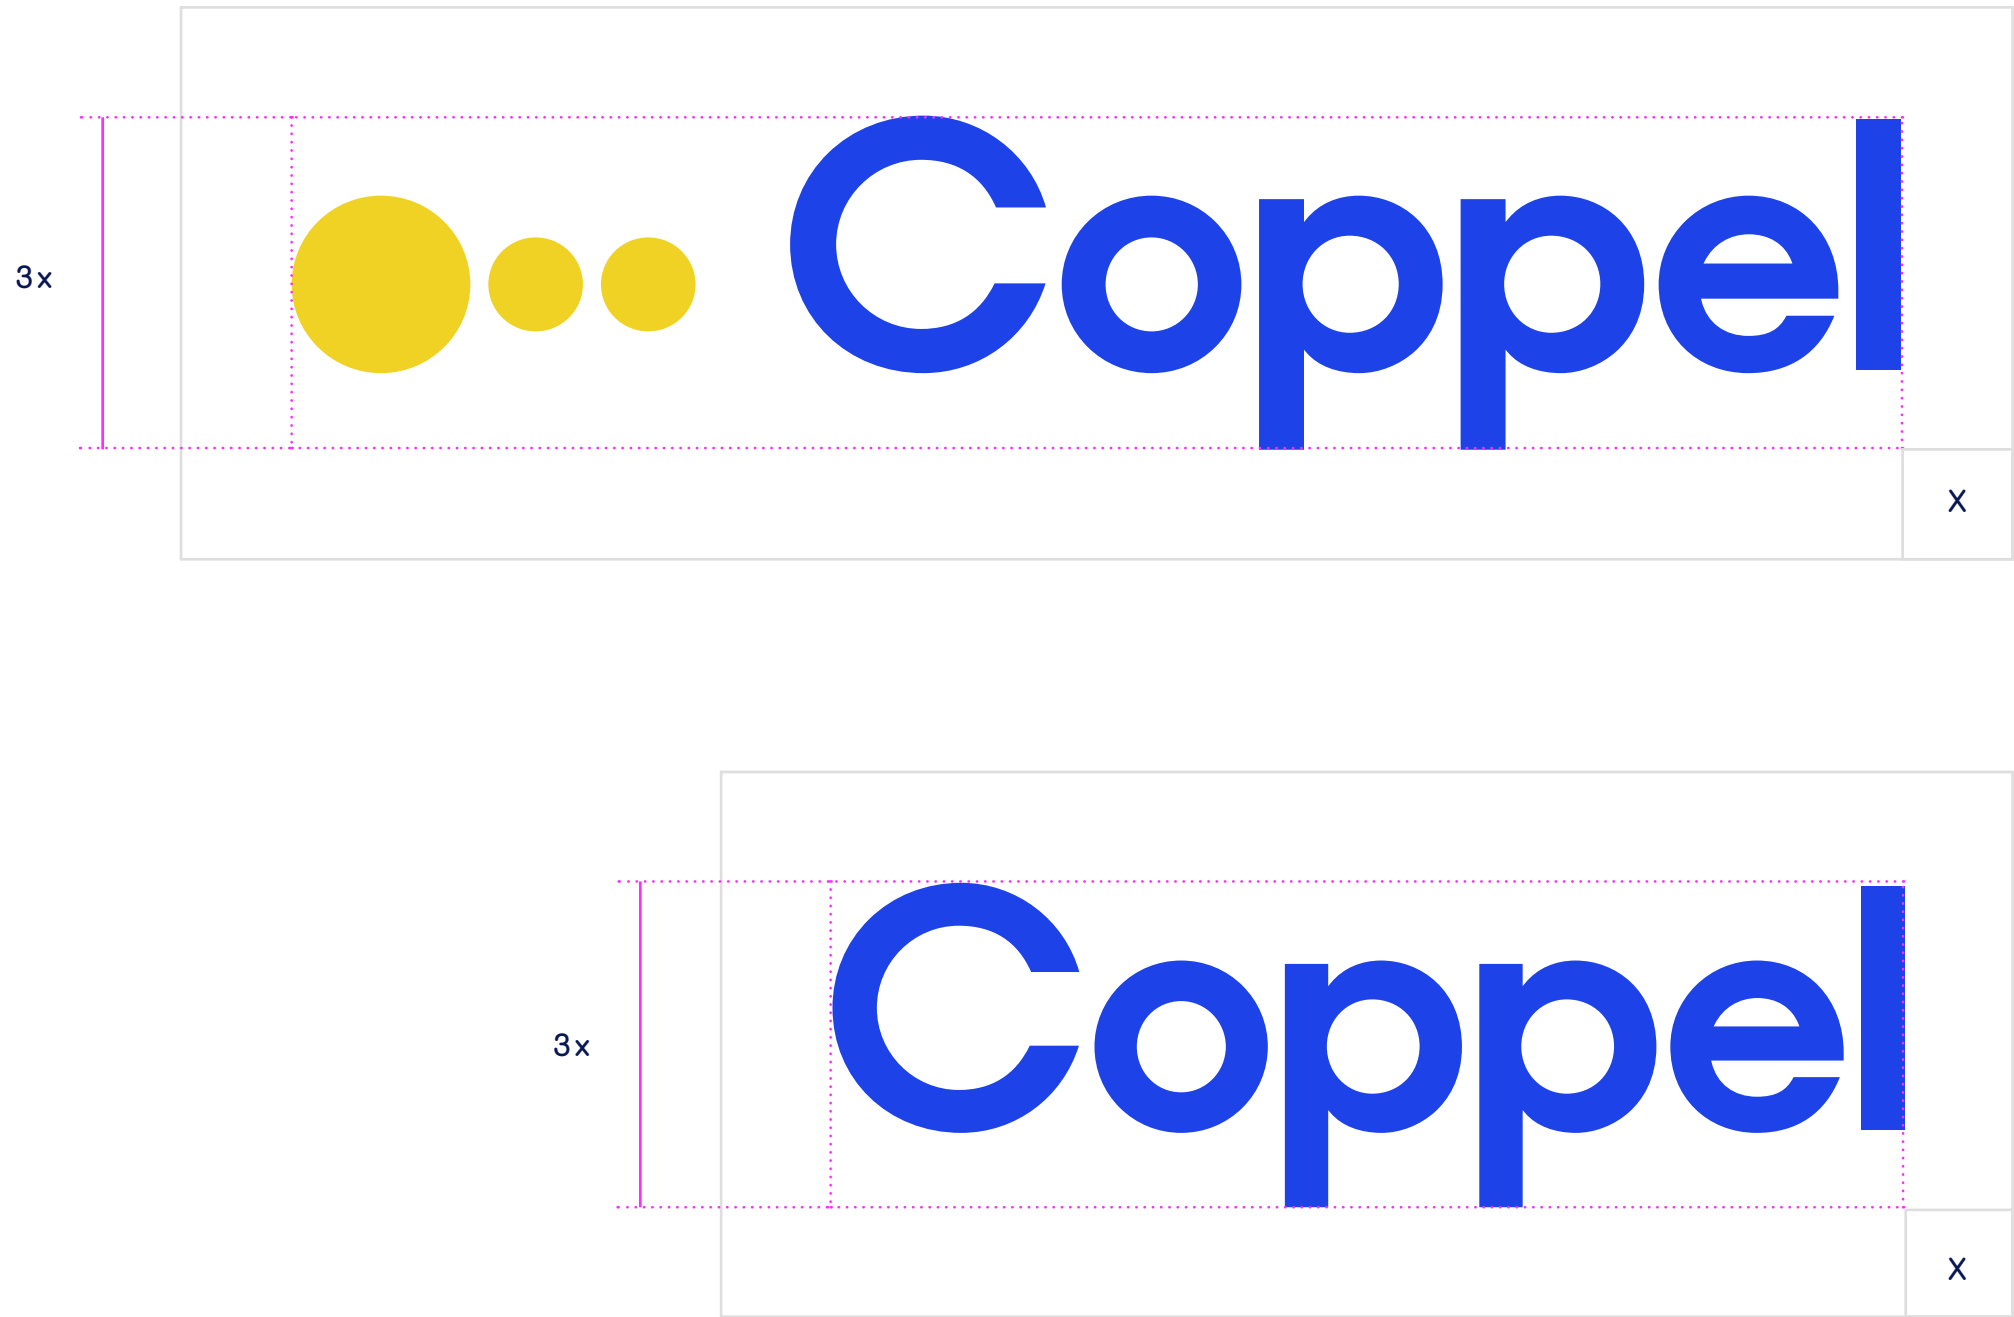

Our favicon is 16px wide.

Clearspace

Clearspace is the minimum margin to maintain around our logo. This space should not be obstructed by other design elements.

Our clearspace (x) is equal to 1/3 of the height of our logo, and at least 1/2 of our symbol.

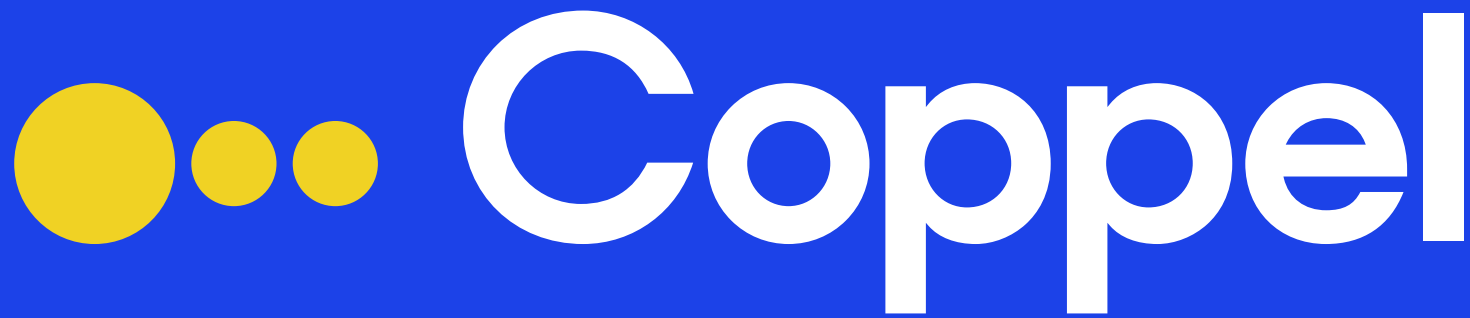

X= 1/3 of height

Color variations: Coppel

Our primary logo is Coppel Yellow and White on dark backgrounds, this should be used the majority of the time. When necessary the Coppel Yellow and Coppel Blue logo can be used on white, see alternative suggestions on the following page.

Use our one color logo for print scenarios only, and in other special cases. See following page for more background rules.

Solid Color

Recommended color backgrounds

Following are examples of our logo application on solid colors. For contrast and legibility reasons avoid using any combinations with the red slash.

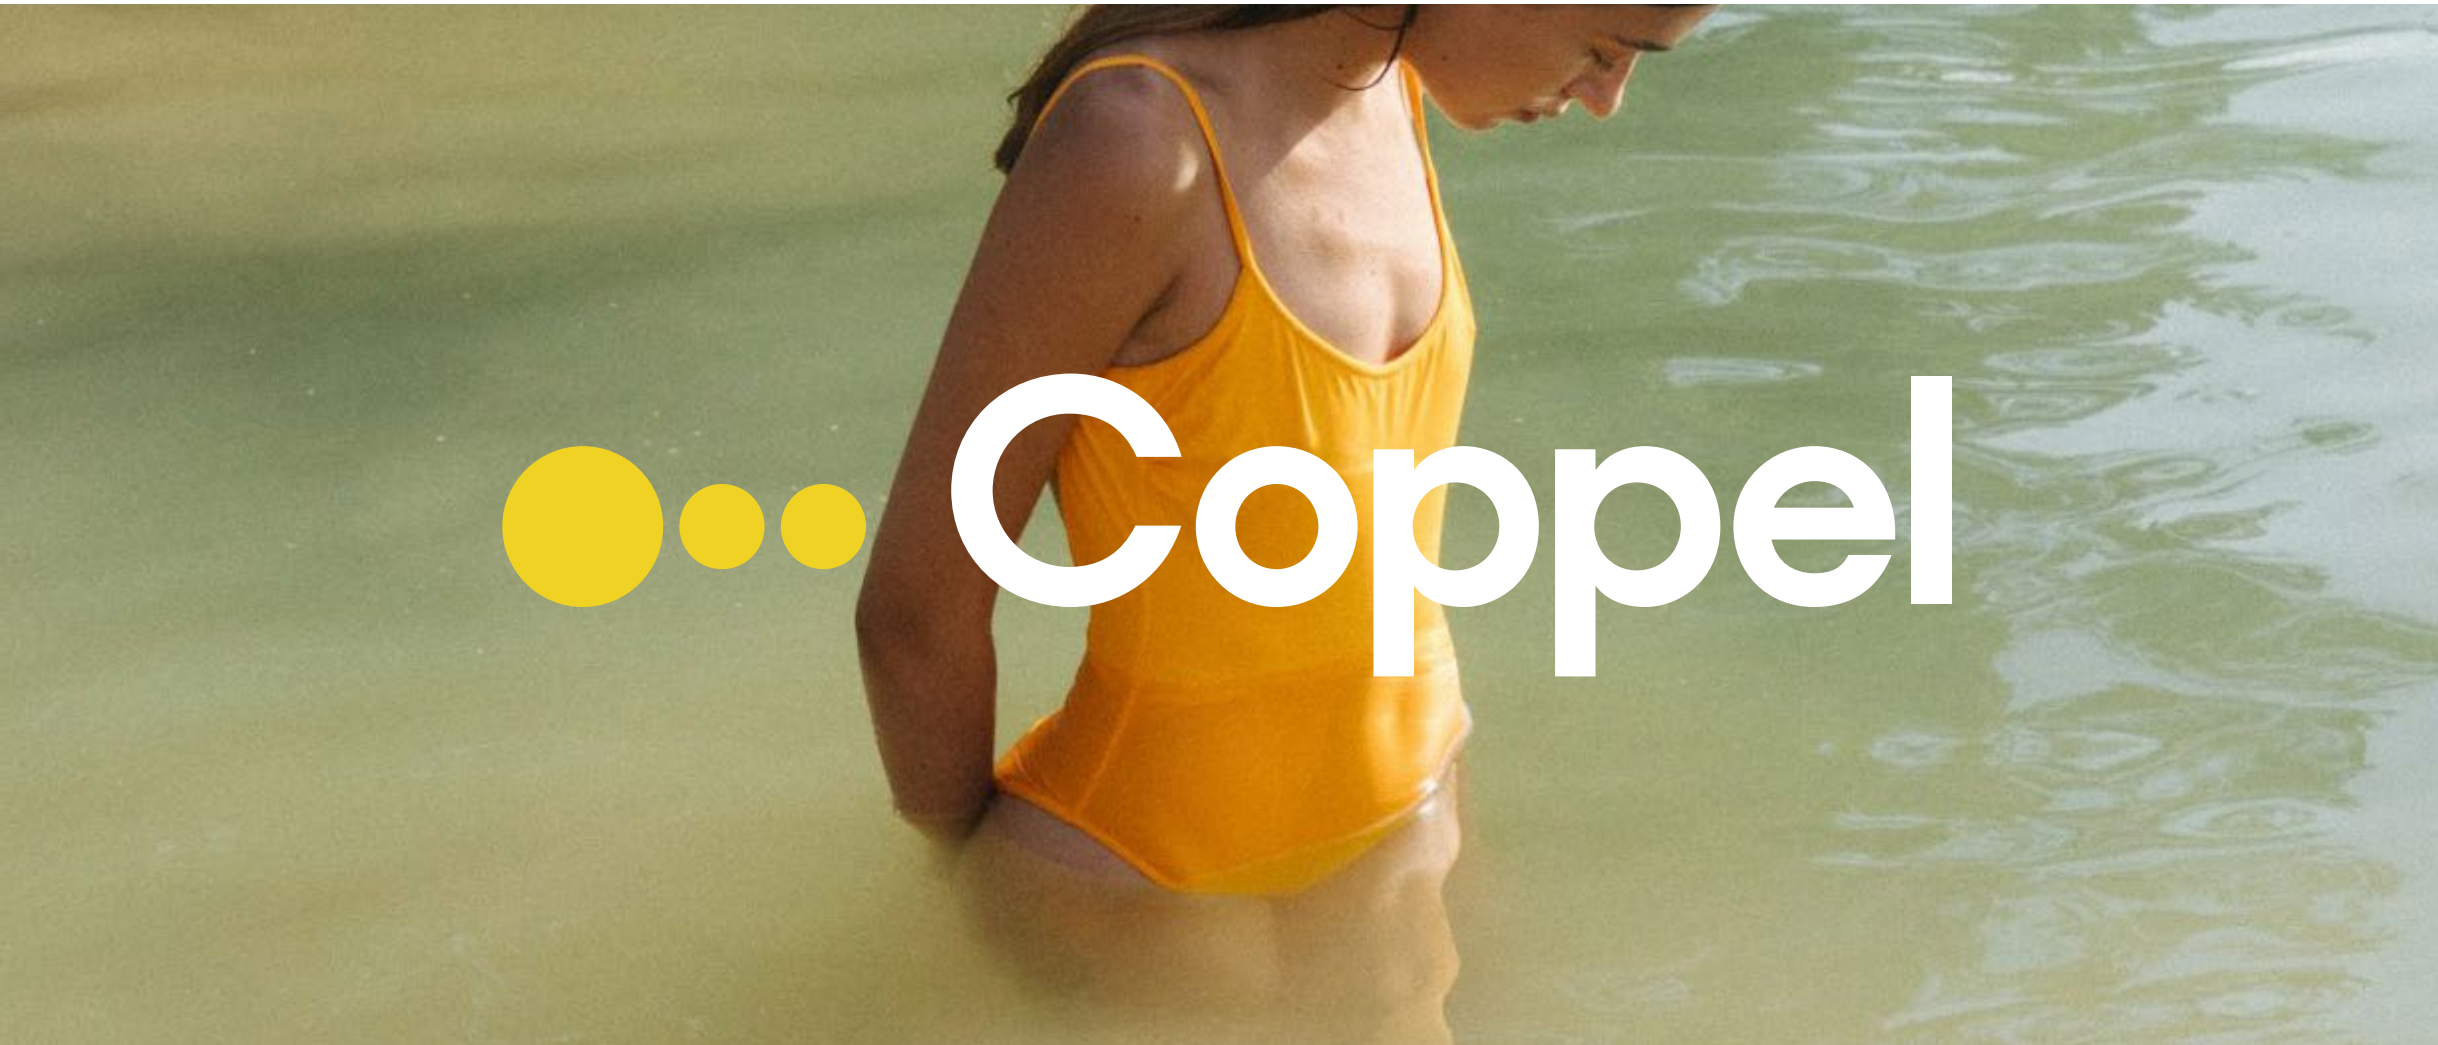

Usage

Our primary logo in Coppel Blue is used over light imagery. It is used in white over dark imagery. While selecting impactful imagery is important, logo legibility is always the foremost priority.

Color

A unique color scheme is one of the most impactful tools to establish a unique visual identity.

Reflecting on an individual's personal experience of time, our palette is based on the hue shifts of the sky throughout the day.

A bright yellow (a reference to the sun) is at the heart of our identity. Our supportive palette spans across the entire color spectrum and can be divided into special-use gradients.

This broad, flexible color concept carries strategic meaning for the brand, and works to visually differentiate multiple sub-brands and services.

Primary palette

Our primary palette is Coppel Blue, Coppel Yellow and White. It is supported by a range of blues to reflect the other Coppel business offerings, such as BanCoppel.

These hues are strategically and conceptually at the core of our new brand, and should be applied to the majority of all compositions.

Special-use gradients

Our colors can combine to add an additional layer to our palette – Special-use gradients. This spectrum can be divided into groups of colors to be used as distinct gradients for special use cases such as limited sales, campaigns, events and multi-category applications.

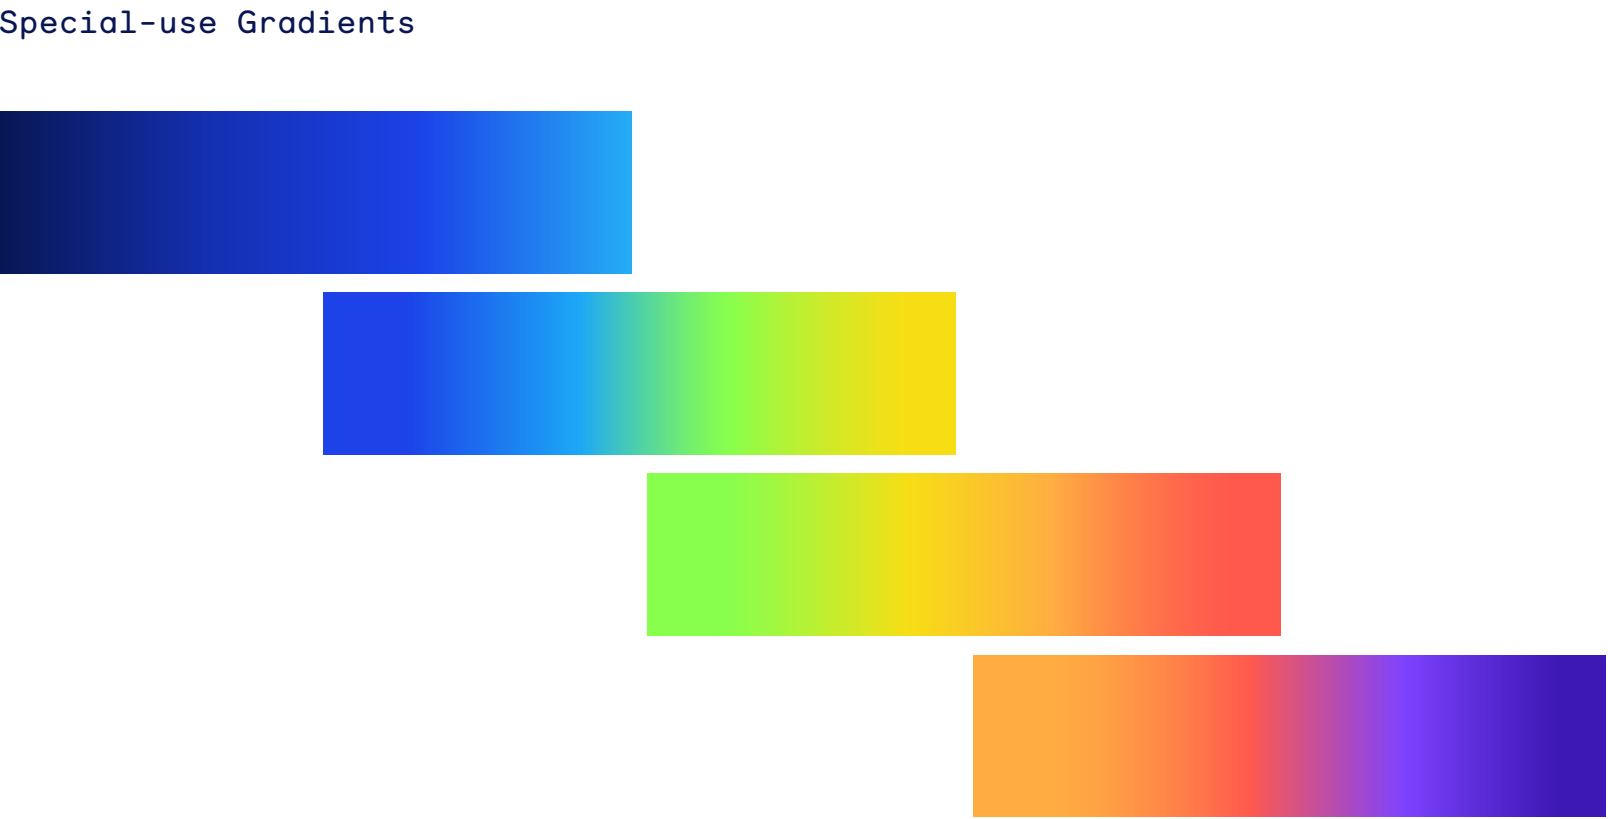

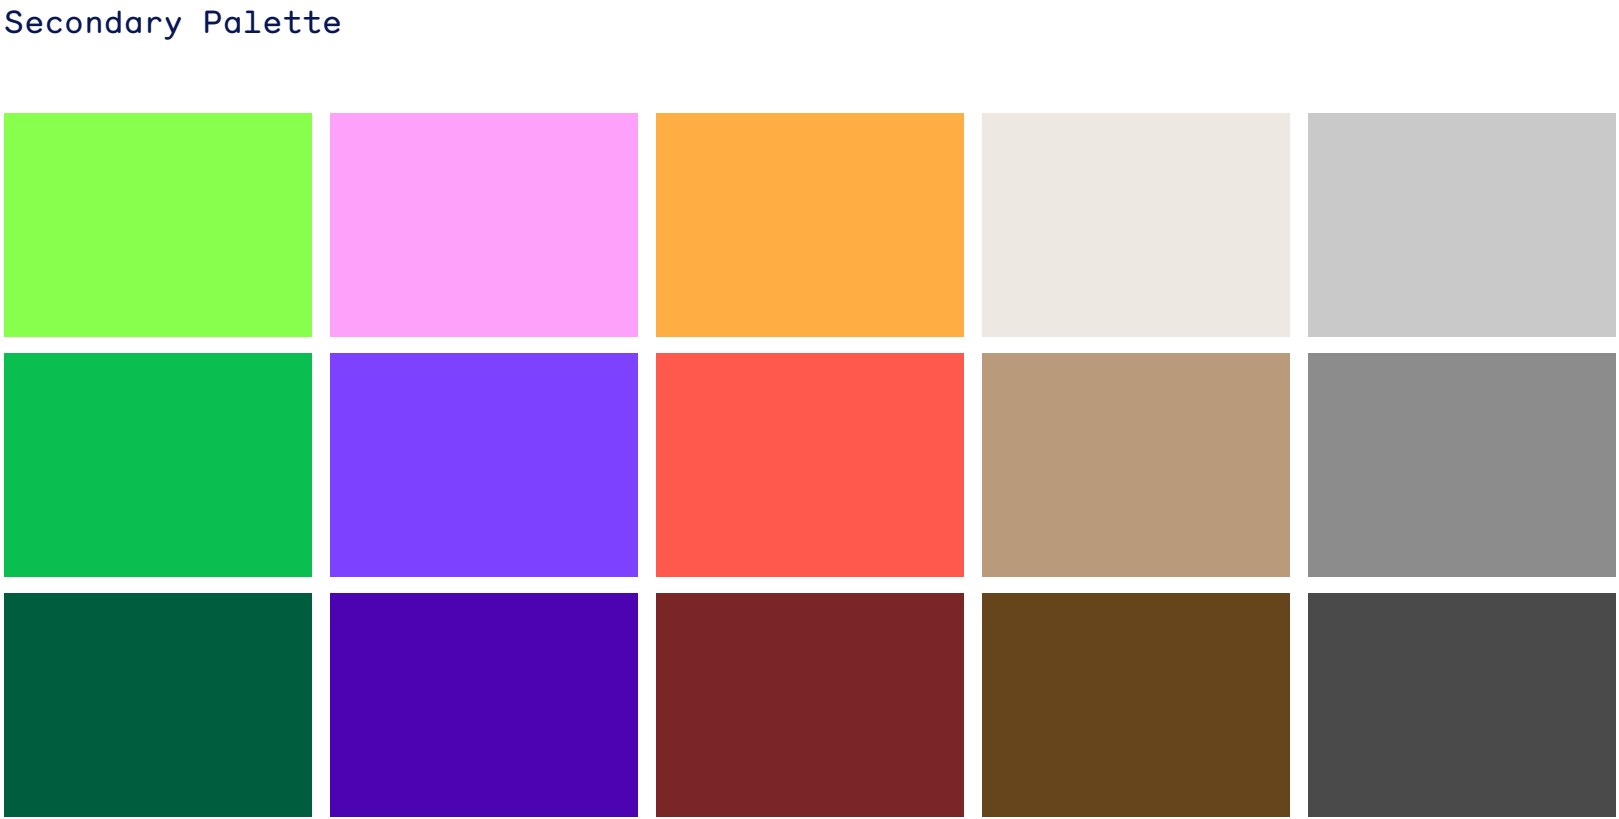

The use of our Special-use gradients should be limited and used sparingly across our brand. Always ensure our primary brand colors are present when using gradients.

Color Usage: Coppel

Our color system consists of three distinct palettes: Primary, Secondary, and Special-use Gradients. Each palette serves a unique purpose within the brand, with the goal to help guide and orient the customer.

By assigning specific functions to each palette, we ensure a seamless and intuitive customer journey across all touchpoints, both online and offline.

- Use Cases
- For all institutional and evergreen use cases
 - Darker blue range for BanCoppel (See following section)

- Use Cases
- Secondary colors assigned to store categories on and offline.
 - For photo art direction and illustrations
 - For digital UX / UI notifications, CTAs, sales, and digital interactions
 - Can be used without primary colors but always within a primary context of the brand (ie inside the store)

- Use Cases
- For special use cases like events, sales, and campaigns
 - Multi-category applications or motion and category transitions

Color accessibility recommendations

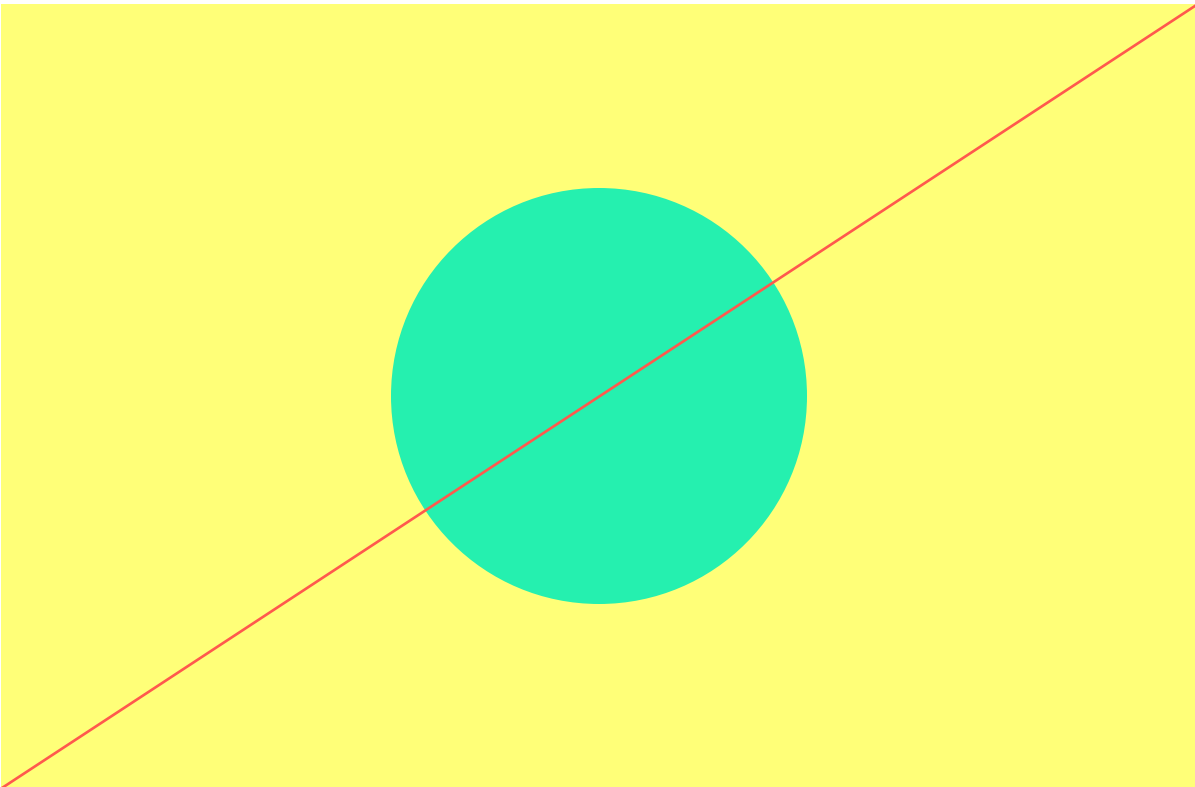

Below are recommended color combinations to ensure proper contrast and ADA compliance. AAA label means optimal legibility, while AA is acceptable. Any combination without a label is either illegible, or to be used with discretion.

Incorrect usage

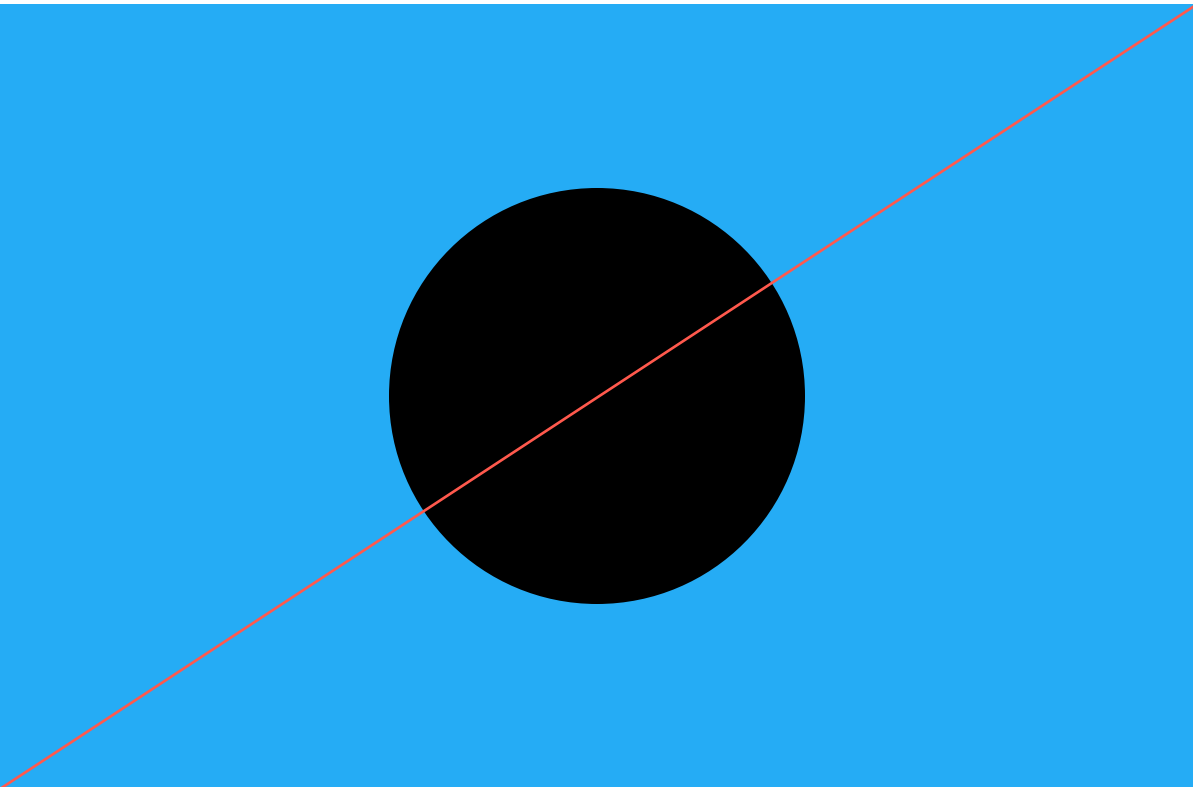

Do not apply gradients that are off brand.

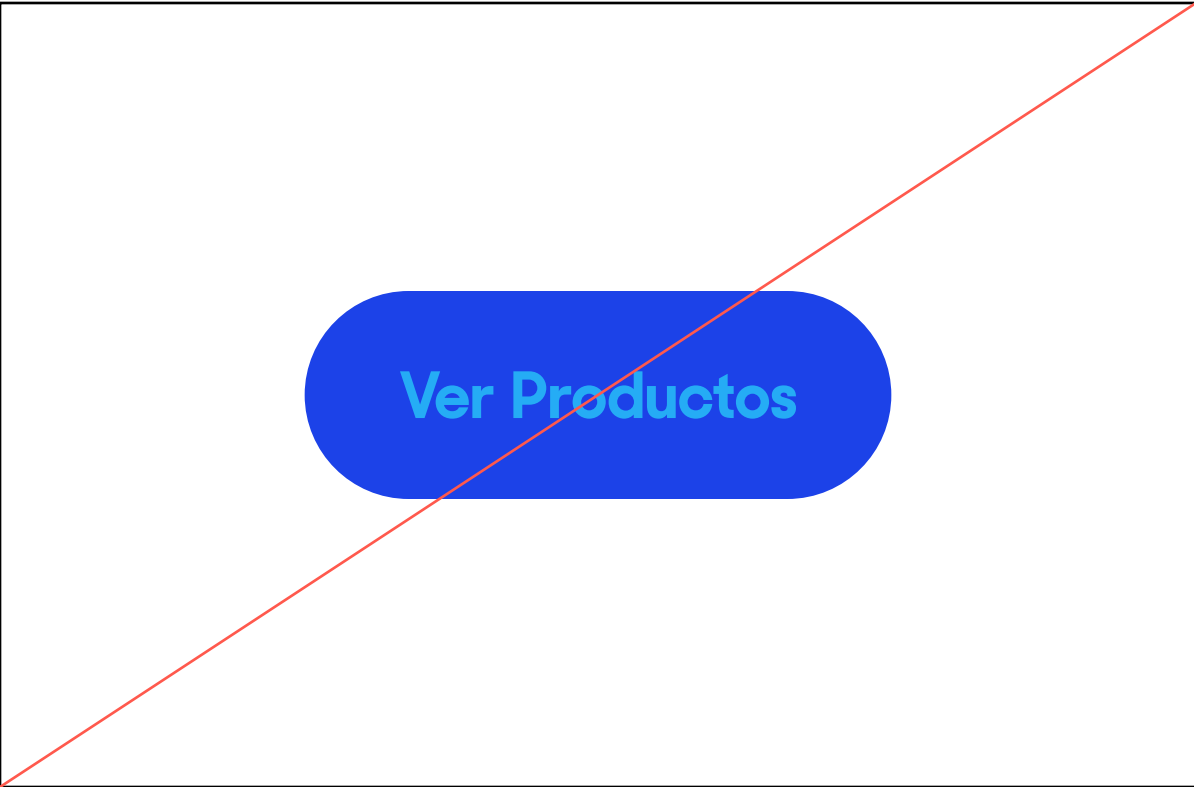

Don't use colors outside of the brand.

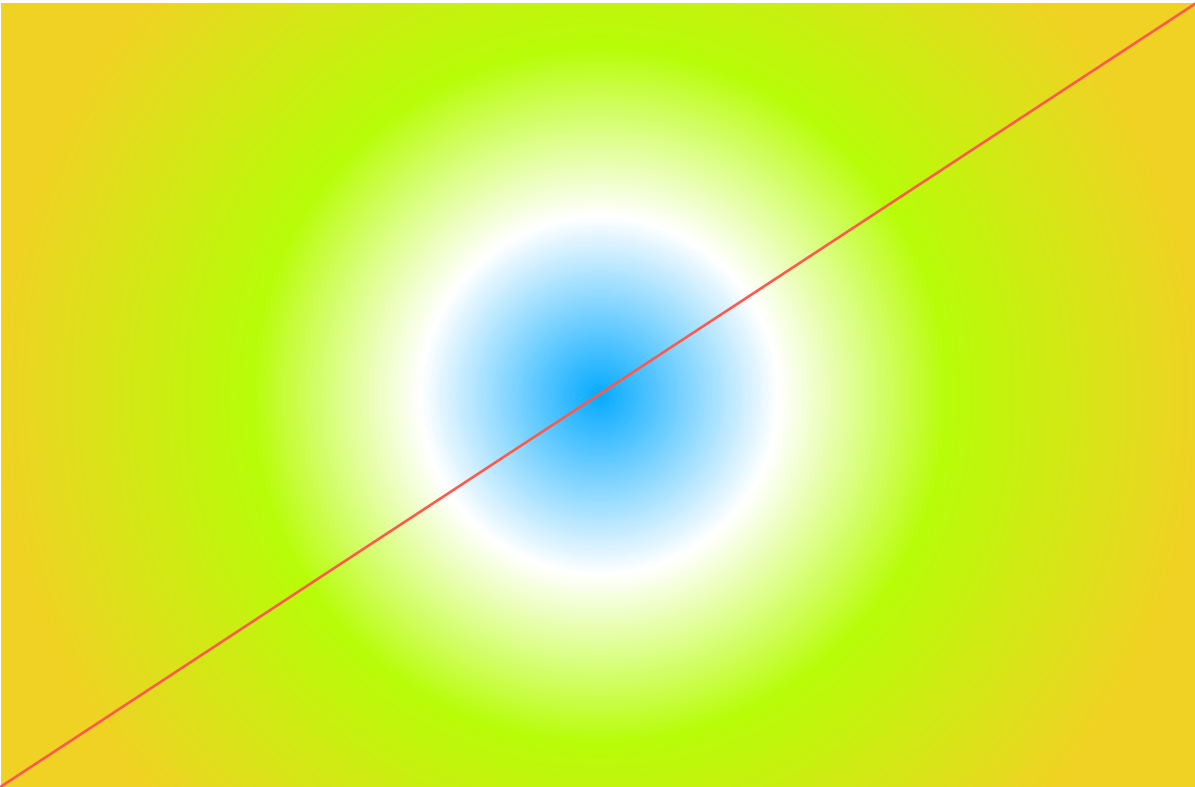

Don't use non-compliant colorways.

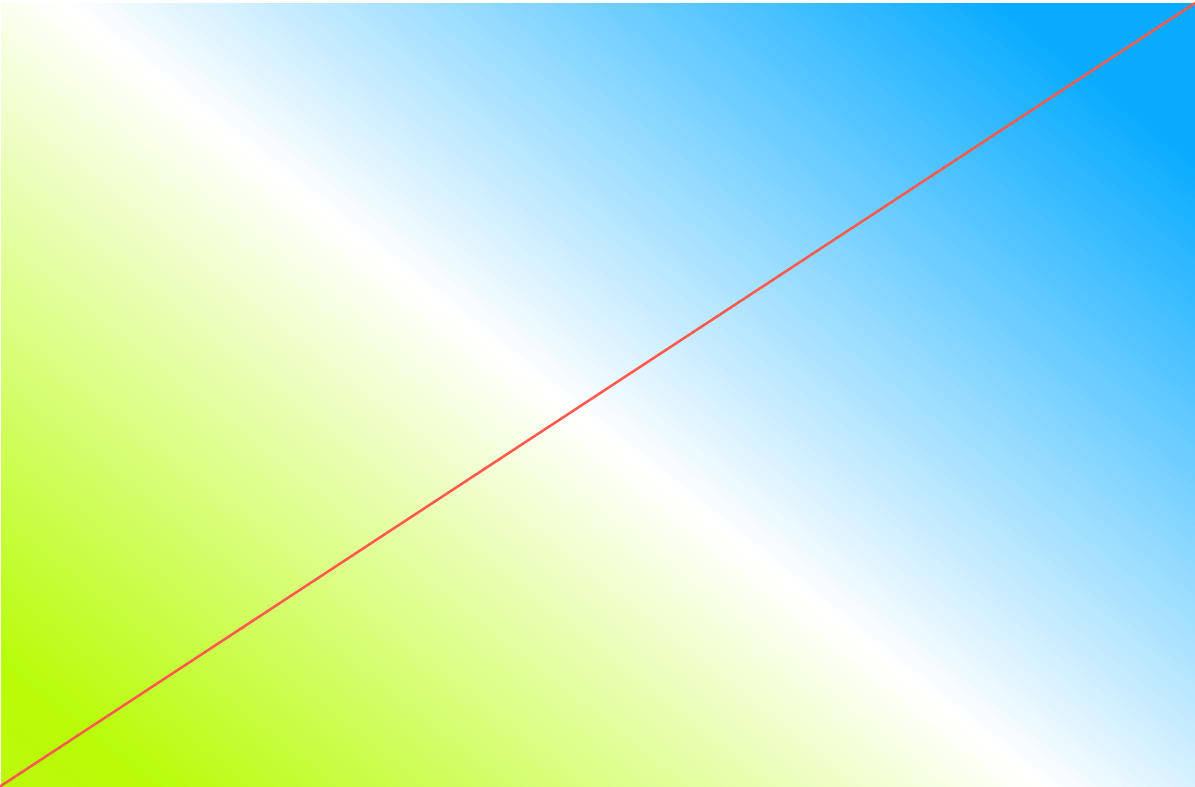

Don't use black as it's not part of our system.

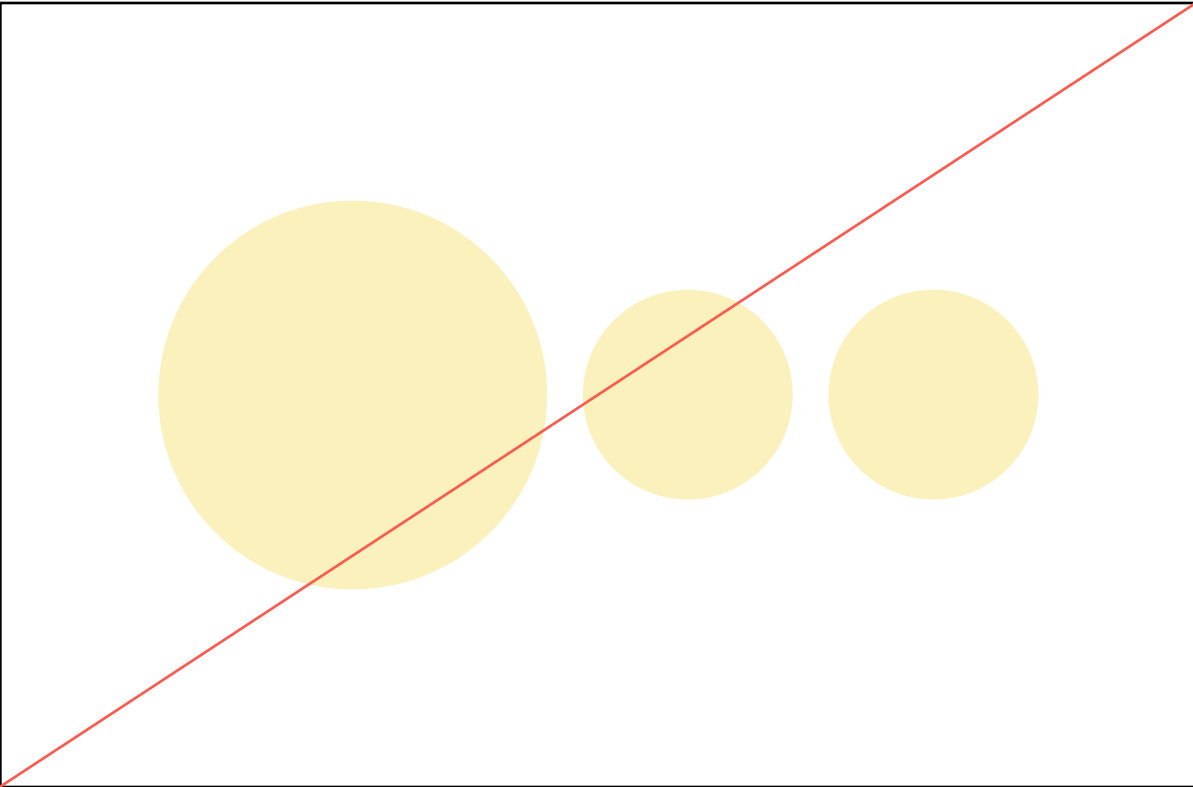

Do not apply colors that are not recommended for CTA links or buttons.

Do not use gradients as radials.

Do not use gradients diagonally.

Do not use tints.

Typography

Our new typographic system introduces warmth, optimism, and data-driven intelligence to all of Coppel's communications. It can be elegant, expressive, or playful.

It's used to inform, entice, and guide.

Coppel's primary typefaces are contemporary and robust, with distinct details and unique elements that convey different tone of voices directed at various audiences within our large consumer base.

Typefaces

Our primary typefaces are Reckless (serif) and Sharp Sans No.2 (sans-serif). Reckless, provides a robust yet elegant voice in an highly legible, contemporary typeface.

Our third typeface is Monosten, a monospaced typeface with humanistic qualities.

Sharp Sans No. 2, is a geometric, friendly yet personable typeface that is primarily based on circles.
